What is the Road to Careers program about?

Under Governor Moore's leadership, Maryland's Labor and Transportation departments have joined forces to establish the Road to Careers grant program, a multi-year $24 million initiative designed to grow the number of highly skilled workers to support the increasing demand in the transportation sector. Through Road to Careers, grantees will utilize proven service delivery models such as Registered Apprenticeship, PreApprenticeship, and an adult education model called Integrated Education and Training, to prepare jobseekers for careers in highway and capital transit construction occupations, such as construction laborers, equipment operators, or skilled trade workers. With an eye towards equity and leaving no Marylander behind, grantee organizations will also devise creative strategies that deploy a holistic, individualized approach to alleviate any barriers that may hinder a jobseeker's ability to succeed in these careers. This may include help with transportation or childcare costs, referrals for mental health support, or providing uniforms or the tools needed for employment.

What kind of organizations can apply to receive grant funding?

Through a competitive grant launched in November 2024, Labor has released a $4 million investment in Road to Careers funding. Awards are capped at $500,000, and the period of performance is 36 months. The following entities are encouraged to apply:

- Local Workforce Development Areas (LWDAs)
- Community-based Organizations
- Workforce Training Providers
- Registered Apprenticeship Sponsors
- Adult Education Providers
- Community Colleges
- Organizations serving immigrants and refugees
- Other entities as deemed allowable by the Maryland Department of Labor

How do I apply for a Road to Careers grant?

Prospective grant applicants can access application documents at labor.maryland.gov/employment/roadtocareers.shtml. For consideration, applications must be submitted electronically to road2.careers@maryland.gov by January 23, 2026. Award announcements will be made in April 2026.

Who is eligible to receive training and support through Labor's Road to Careers grantees?

Road to Careers is designed to expand opportunities to Marylanders who want to pursue a career in the skilled trades but may need some extra support to get started on the path to success. The initiative is meant to support individuals who may face barriers to employment, including but not limited to those who are low-income, justice-involved, English language learners, youth who have aged out of foster care, and more.
