

How To Request A Hearing If You Think Your Application for Worker Support Payments Should Not Have Been Denied

Background

This document is to request a hearing if you believe your application for Worker Support Program payments should not have been denied, canceled, or for other reasons noted below.

How do I request a hearing?

- Fill out the form below.

How long do I have to request a hearing?

- If your application for temporary relief payments was denied, you must ask for a hearing no later than 15 calendar days after the date of the notice denying your application for temporary relief payments.
- If you have received correspondence from the Maryland Department of Labor requesting repayment of funds paid to you, you must ask for a hearing no later than 15 calendar days after the date of that correspondence.
- If you believe your temporary relief payments have been incorrectly canceled, you must ask for a hearing no later than 15 calendar days after the date you should have received payment.

When and where will the hearing be?

- You will receive an email notice informing you of the date and time of your hearing.
- It will take place via video conference. The instructions to log on will be included in the email notice.

Do I have to attend the hearing?

- The hearing will proceed without you unless you have requested a postponement.
- If you cannot attend, call the number on the email notice and they will let you know how to reschedule your hearing.

Can I bring someone to help me or speak for me?

- You may be represented by a lawyer at the hearing.

How can I prepare for the hearing?

- You can view your file in the Submittable portal.
- A representative from the Maryland Department of Labor can talk to you about the hearing if you schedule a call with a hearing supervisor. The number will be provided in the email confirming your hearing.
