FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW WHEN FILING A REAL ESTATE COMPLAINT

- The Real Estate Commission only accepts complaints against individuals with real estate licenses. A complaint must also be based on circumstances which occurred in a real estate transaction. The Commission has no jurisdiction over new home builders, home inspectors, unlicensed home sellers or mortgage brokers.
- Complaints filed by consumers must be submitted in writing on the real estate complaint and guaranty fund claim form. It is necessary that complaints are accompanied by copies of all pertinent supporting documentation.
- Complaints get a preliminary review to determine whether the complaint falls within the jurisdiction of the Commission. They are then assigned a case number and a letter of acknowledgment is sent to the complainant. Copies of complaints are sent to all the licensees in the allegation for their response to the allegations. Once a response is received, a review process takes place and the evidence in the file determines the case's progress. The case is either administratively dismissed or sent for an investigative process. Another review follows the investigation and a complaint may be assigned to be reviewed by a panel of Commissioners.
- A complaint that results in recommended charges against the licensees is reviewed by the Attorney General's Office for legal sufficiency. The majority of cases set for a hearing are sent to the Office of Administrative Hearings for a hearing date. The time frame of these departments is not under the control of the Commission.
- Each case is reviewed according to the date received. Complaints that are dismissed have been approved by the Commissioners, of the Real Estate Commission. All dismissals of the Commission are final.
- There are exceptions in the progression of a complaint depending on the circumstances. The above bullets are the normal procedures of a case.
